

SATURDAY SELECTS

Week of July 11, 2022

by Dan Howarth

A weekly recap to share with you our favorite links, discoveries, exhibitions, and more from the past seven days. This week: an entirely blue exhibition, an absolutely wild daybed, and a strong contender for bathroom vanity of the year.

Maybe because it's hot out, but these mirrors resembling refreshing pools of water look good enough to dive into. Named Lakes, and created by French designers Maryna Dague and Nathan Baraness for Ukrainian brand NOOM, the collection includes five aqueous reflective surfaces mounted onto slabs of wood, brass, oxidized copper, marble, or